Dearest Randy

I really feel your plight. I felt really bad and put off by what you explained to me on the phone. It seems that your heart wants to do the right thing but people just don't seem to understand. Understand that giving you a little bit of breathing room or space you would be more than happy to share some time with someone. But it seems to me that people can be selfish and just like circumstances approach you so abruptly that the element of surprise can be alarming.

Speaking for myself not just out of gratitude or respect but also just out of love and consideration for you I did my best when living with you. Such as keeping your home a home, keeping it clean and well lit and displayed and or arranged so everything you needed you would find easily. Including laundry, super market shopping doing other errands. Making sure everyone was comfortable and at peace. Morally I did not over step my bounds, I did everything possible to make George feel at home. Plus I went out of my way to cook for people I didn't even know. Just to please you and keep your home life working. Besides the fact that I cooked for you everyday for a while. And like I said laundry, dust, garbage would not pile up. The refrigerator never went unclean nor the stove. I also found the time, the energy, and strength to start working at the store when David started to take ill. And gave Michael Toy a well deserved ~~hand~~ hand and the relief that David needed. I work at display and sales person and lamp maker. Kept the place clean and inviting. Was mild mannered with the customers. And made quite a bit of money at the store for the store. And had build a pretty good Clientell. I opened your side of the store three times on three different seasons. All by myself, I did this without complaining plus my weekend job at National Video club. which a weekend job it turned into a full time job which took my weekends. And still I didn't complain or misuse your home your stay your friendships. I continued to do all I could at Marine View Plaza and I continued to do what I could do at Apleft and I continued to do what I did at M.V. club. And I still won't complain.

I think it was beautiful ^{of} you to have taken me in. in spite of the fact that you needed me.
And I could only stress that from my point of view, from my way of seeing you and having proven myself to you I could only hope and pray that you realize that there is someone that sees you for the good person that you really are.

Yours Truly

Wally

P.S. I didn't mean to sound like if I was pressuring you about going to see Willie.

What I was saying and only meant that if you were going to go see Willie because you had decided to see him one more time or one last time. That I wouldn't mind giving you my company on the way there.
Because besides I would like to say goodbye to Willie anyway. That's all...

Love you Randy.
