

Caught Again.—A negro named Peter Sewally, whose first trial for a most singular offence, which took place in the old Session Room in the Park, excited a great deal of curiosity at the time, was arrested on Saturday night in West Broadway, tricked out in female apparel of the most fashionable style and cut, and sporting the newest shaped hat. This scamp has served one long term at Sing Sing and several short ones at Blackwell's Island, but the ruling passion appears too strong for punishment to subdue, and he stands a fair chance of doing the State some further service.—Cour. of Eng.
