

Dear Randy

First of all I would like to except my apology for not doing what you expected for me to do.

I mean, I could of helped George do the laundry, dust and cook so that when you got home you would have been comfortable.

I'm really very sorry about the whole thing.

But on the other hand you lead me to believe that it was a festive idea to have me over for my birthday that I had no idea that you thought that I should come over and help do laundry, dust, and cook on my birthday. You could of come out with it like you usually do.

Besides don't you find it just a little curious that I sorted the Randy clan on my birthday; don't you.!

^{but} I have never gone out of my way to you or yours.

I mean like I worked at N.V. I., worked at Uplift when David took sick, cleaned did the laundry cooked while Marcha was in California, kept George's side of the bed warm awaiting his return. If

If this is not enough to prove my sincerity then I guess I'll always be at a loose with you.

Considering the pressure that I was going at the same time with Willie and David being mean with verbal and emotional abuse which they did as a means of trying to get rid of me, while sometimes I felt as if you were for it as a means to assure that I would leave. Which was abusive to me considering how hard I did work to get my own. Pressure from them to turn against you and David Combs, Michael Fay and George.

They hated me and showed me for not joining their game against the people. They tried to turn George against me by making him think that I was trying to convince you that George was no good for you.

Turned Marcha against me by telling her that I was not going anywhere so she better wise up and take charge and make my life miserable. You coming home accusing me of going to bed with George. Being rude to me when ever you wanted to be alone with George instead of just being polite and asking me; which I would have gladly just left for the evening.

Under all this pressure I still worked and tried to give you my best.

I don't know what more to say to put myself in perspective.

But I do know and appreciate the pressure your going through with David Combs not well, George the same and Michael toy out of the picture and Marcha flipping out, Willie abusing your confidence.

I know God how I know, I was smacked right in the middle finding myself tying loose ends together.

Oh well heres the twenty dollars I owe you.

If you need me call me.

Say Hello to George and David for me.

Love you always

Malu

Sincerely Yours.
