Abstract: Materials collected by Ralph Judd relating to the history of cross-dressing in the performing arts. The collection is focused on popular music and vaudeville from the 1890s through the 1930s, and on film and television: it contains few materials on musical theater, non-musical theater, ballet, opera, or contemporary popular music. The materials consist primarily of sheet music, 1848-1988 (bulk circa 1895-1940), and studio publicity stills of motion pictures, 1900-1996, and of television productions, circa 1950-2000, that depict men and women dressed in attire considered appropriate to the opposite gender. The collection also contains a series of Research Files, arranged in a number of sub-series and consisting largely of studio stills, supplemented by press kits and other publicity materials, programs, reviews, photocopies, and clippings from newspapers and the popular press. The collection includes Judd's writings, both published and unpublished, including his columns published in the cross-dressing press, as well as over 100 posters of motion pictures and theatrical performances that contain cross-dressing, and the remainder of Judd's collection of VHS videos of motion pictures that depict cross-dressing.

Languages: Languages represented in the collection: English

Biography

Ralph Waverly Judd was born in Zillah, Washington, on April 22, 1930. He entered Harvard as a Harvard National Scholar in 1947. The following year he enlisted in the Massachusetts National Guard and was elected Chairman of the Harvard Smoker Committee. He enlisted in the US Coast Guard in 1949, being appointed cadet in 1950. While at the Coast Guard Academy he served as editor-in-chief of the cadet magazine, Surf 'n' Storm. Upon graduation in 1954 he was commissioned ensign. In 1955, while serving on the Northwind, he helped build the DEWline (Distant Early Warning). He served as Airborne Ice observer during the International Geophysical Year, and delivered motor fuel to Sir Edmund Hillary of the Commonwealth Trans-Antarctic Expedition to the South Pole. After duty in 1958 as executive officer of the Ivy, the world's largest buoy tender, he returned to the Coast Guard Academy as cross country coach, and advisor to the cadet magazine; he became Chief of the Physics Section in 1962. In 1964, he obtained an MBA from George Washington University and was assigned commanding officer of the Comanche. In 1966, he was Executive Officer for Precommissioning Detail, Tight Reign, in Bangkok, Thailand, then Construction Expediter and first Commanding Officer of the only US Coast Guard station in Vietnam. In 1968, he was appointed first Chief of Coast Guard Exchanges, Commissaries, Clubs and Messes. In 1971, he served as commanding officer of the Rockaway out of New York. He retired with the rank of Commander in 1972, and entered on a career as writer. He published his first book, The Coast Guard in Film, in the 1970s. He began collecting materials for what became the world's largest collection on cross-dressing in the performing arts in the late 1970s, and in 1988 earned a PhD in Communications from Clayton University with his thesis, Origins of Crossdressing: A History of performance en travesty . He continued to publish widely, including the pictorial books Drag Gags; Fun with Female Impersonation from the Movies (1991), and Drag Gags Return; Tongue-in-Cheek Fun with Female Impersonation from the Movies (1992), and articles in such mainstream periodicals as Readers Digest, US Coast Guard Academy Alumni Association Bulletin , National Lampoon, Christopher Street, and Veterans Voices, and in a large number of specialty publications addressing the cross-dressing community. He died in Seattle, Washington, on December 20, 2007.

Scope and Content of Collection

The collection consists of materials collected by Ralph Judd relating to the history of cross-dressing in the performing arts. The collection is focused on popular music and vaudeville from the 1890s through the 1930s, and on film and television: it contains few materials on musical theater, non-musical theater, ballet, opera, or contemporary popular music. The materials consist primarily of sheet music, 1848-1988 (bulk circa 1895-1940), and studio publicity stills of motion pictures, 1900-1996, and of television productions, circa 1950-2000, that depict men and women dressed in attire considered appropriate to the opposite gender. The sheet music also includes a substantial number of items whose covers do not depict cross-dressing, but which (1) were performed by known homosexuals, (2) have titles with a "gay" connotation according to present GLBT and mainstream sensibilities; (4) have front pages that depict men or women in positions that could be construed as "gay" or "lesbian" according to current sensibilities; (5) are considered "camp" according to current sensibilities, and (6) celebrate patriotic themes. The collection includes a separate series of sheet music and photographs relating to Julian Eltinge, perhaps the greatest female impersonator of the 20th century, and a small album of photographs and postcards relating to other musical theater and vaudeville stars of the 19th and early 20th centuries.

The collection also contains a series of Research Files, arranged in a number of sub-series and consisting largely of studio stills, supplemented by press kits and other publicity materials, programs, reviews, photocopies, and clippings from newspapers and the popular press. The People sub-series includes information on several prominent female impersonators, such as Jim Bailey and Charles Pierce. The significance to cross-dressing of a substantial portion of the materials, in particular in the Motion Pictures sub-series, is not readily apparent from the documents at hand.

The collection includes a number of booklets on cross-dressing published by Judd; copies of his regular columns published in the cross-dressing press; and final drafts of several unpublished works on cross-dressing in motion pictures and in television. The collection also contains small number of periodicals published by the cross-dressing community; over 100 posters of motion pictures and theatrical performances that contain cross-dressing; and the remainder of Judd's collection (originally numbering over 183 items) of VHS videos of motion pictures that depict cross-dressing.

Physical Description: 3 boxes, 10 albums (to be transferred to boxes).

Scope and Content Note

This series contains 1065 pieces of sheet music, including 90 duplicates—representing different printings or editions—or a total of 975 unique items. The materials date from 1848 to 1988, with the bulk from circa 1895 to 1940. They relate almost exclusively to American musical theater and vaudeville, with a small number relating to their British counterparts. The series is arranged in 3 boxes and 10 albums (numbered 4 through 13), labeled as follows:

Camp -- Vol. 4
 Female Impersonation -- Vol. 13
 Gay Love -- Vol. 6
 Indians ; Black / Scenic -- Vol. 8
 Military / Patriotic -- Vol. 10
 Romance -- Vol. 7
 Sweethearts Men -- Vol. 5
 Sweethearts Women -- Vol. 9
 Vodvil / Stage / Radio / Movies -- Vol. 12
 Women in Pants -- Vol. 11

The contents of the albums are scheduled to be transferred to boxes sometime in the future.

The series contains approximately 250 items whose covers depict cross-dressing. The earliest examples are two songs written by William Lingard and published in 1868; the covers of both show Lingard in a dress. The bulk of these items are songs “introduced” or “sung with great success” by established stars of musical theater and vaudeville. Female stars appearing in male attire include Vesta Tilley (16 songs), Florence Tempest (15 songs, both as a solo artist and as part of the duo Tempest and Sunshine), and Hetty King and Ella Shields (each 11 songs). Male stars appearing in female attire include Karyl Norman, “the Creole Fashion Plate” (24 songs), Bert Errol (10 songs), and Tom(my) Martell(e) (7 songs). (For sheet music to songs performed by Julian Eltinge, see Series 3.2.) The cover art suggests that while the female performers were presented as females performing “en travestie” the male performers were presented as female impersonators, creating the illusion of being female. Norman and Martell were unusual in that they contributed to the writing of the songs they performed, Norman frequently providing the lyrics, and Martell usually both lyrics and music.

The majority of the items depicting cross-dressing are found in boxes 1-3. The titles of volumes 4-13 can be misleading: approximately half the materials in vol. 13 (female impersonation) do not depict males in female attire, and include a significant number of items whose covers picture male teen idols of the 1950s and 1960s. Similarly, most of the materials in vol. 11 (females in pants) depict females in harem pants and other garments with leggings intended for females, rather than cross-dressing. The “gay” content in vol. 6 (Gay Love) derives almost exclusively from the application of current GLBT sensibilities to titles such as “My Regular Girl is a Regular Feller” and “I Wish I Were Some Daddy’s Boy”, which carried no such connotations to the generation for which they were written. Indeed, Judd’s selection criteria are unclear, but appear to include: (1) materials whose covers depict men and women clothed in attire considered appropriate to the opposite gender; (2) materials performed by known homosexuals (e.g., Liberace, performing Weill and Anderson’s “September Song” on the piano); (3) titles with a “gay” connotation according to present GLBT and mainstream sensibilities; (4) materials whose front pages depict men or women in positions that could be construed as “gay” or “lesbian” according to current sensibilities; (5) materials considered “camp” according to current sensibilities (e.g., Divine performing “Walk Like A Man”); and (6) materials with patriotic themes, regardless of whether they do or do not have any current GLBT connotation.

Sub-Series 2.2. Television circa 1950-2000*Physical Description: 4 albums (to be transferred to boxes), 1 clamshell album.Scope and Content Note

This sub-series consists of studio publicity stills of actors, actresses, and other individuals appearing on television dressed in clothing considered more appropriate to the opposite gender. The materials came into archival custody in 4 volumes, ostensibly arranged as follows:

Vol. 1: Sitcoms, Ballet

Vol. 2: Specials, Drama, Comedy, Plays, Western, Kid Vid, Infotainment, Game Shows, Movie

Vol. 3: Talk Shows, Opera, Theater, Misc., Camp

Vol. 4: Variety, Adventure, Detective, Police, MTV

However, the volumes do not evidence identifiable, discreet sections for the various forms of television entertainment they are said to contain, and the photographs appear to be arranged randomly within each volume. In addition, the photographs cannot be easily identified, as they are sleeved back to back, and the studio information sheet attached to each one is not readily accessible. The photographs will be removed from the albums, re-sleeved, and re-arranged sometime in the future.

Sub-Series 2.3. Vaudeville Postcards circa 1890-circa 1950*Physical Description: 1 album.Scope and Content Note

This sub-series consists of a single album of photographs and postcards primarily of theatrical, music hall, and vaudeville entertainers of the 19th and first half of the 20th century, primarily in clothing considered more appropriate to the opposite gender. Images include Baby Peggy, Gladys Bentley, Bessie Featherstone, Ella Fox, Kitty Lawrence, Gerard, Billy Merson, Reine, George Robey, Fred Spencer, Gildo Walgher, and Lottie Williams. (Photographs and postcards of Vesta Tilley can be found in Sub-Series 4.2 People.) The sub-series also contains cigarette cards of actresses published by Duke Cigarettes in the late 1880s, as well as images of the hermaphrodite Esther/Lester and Victor-Victoria.

Series 3. Julian Eltinge circa 1900-1925*Physical Description: 2 boxes.Biography

Julian Eltinge, perhaps the greatest female impersonator of the 20th century, was born William Julian Dalton in Newtonville, Massachusetts, on May 14, 1881. He appears to have first appeared on stage in female garb in the Boston Cadets Revue in Boston at the age of ten. He made his first appearance on Broadway in 1904, in the musical comedy Mr. Wix of Wickham. Soon after, he appeared in vaudeville and toured Europe and the United States, giving a command performance before King Edward VII in 1906. Unlike many female impersonators of his time, Eltinge did not present a caricature of a woman but rather the illusion of actually being a woman. In 1911, Eltinge appeared in The Fascinating Widow, the first of a series of musical comedies written specifically for his talents. By the following year, he was so popular that a newly built theater on 42nd Street was named after him. He also published a magazine with tips and beauty secrets for women, with advertisements for his own line of beauty products. In 1917, he appeared in his first feature film, The Countess Charming. He continued to appear in vaudeville, and was for a time one of the highest paid actors on the American stage, living in splendor in one of the most lavish mansions in Los Angeles, the Villa Capistrano. However, times and taste change, and by the 1930s, with the arrival of the Great Depression and the death of vaudeville, the female impersonations that Eltinge had built his career on had begun to lose popularity, and Eltinge found himself performing in increasingly sleazy nightclubs. He died in New York on March 7, 1941, following a show at a nightclub.

Scope and Content Note

This series consists of photographs and printed matter relating to Julian Eltinge and sheet music of songs he performed in his theatrical and vaudeville performances, circa 1900-1925.

Sub-Series 3.1. Photographs and Printed Materials circa 1900-1925*Physical Description: 1 box.Scope and Content Note

This sub-series consists of photographs and printed materials relating to Julian Eltinge. The photographs include miscellaneous photographs, as well as photographs of Eltinge in his various Broadway and vaudeville roles, and studio publicity stills of his film roles. The photographs for The Fascinating Widow include many used as advertisements for Eltinge's beauty products. The printed materials include two issues of the Julian Eltinge Magazine for 1913-1914, and a 1913 program for the Julian Eltinge Theatre on 42nd Street.

Box 38	Sub-Series 3.2. Sheet Music 1905-1923 Physical Description: 1 box. Scope and Content Note This sub-series consists of sheet music for songs performed by Julian Eltinge in his theatrical performances and in vaudeville. The majority of the songs are associated with Eltinge's three greatest theatrical successes, the musical comedies The Fascinating Widow (1911), The Crinoline Girl (1914), and Cousin Lucy (1915). The range of copyright dates for songs Eltinge performed in The Fascinating Widow (ranging from 1909 to 1913) and Cousin Lucy (from 1915 to 1917), suggests both that the works utilized songs not written specifically for them and that new songs were substituted from time to time, possibly to "freshen" the works and to entice repeated attendance. Eltinge himself contributed lyrics to songs for The Fascinating Widow (1912 and 1913) and The Crinoline Girl . Arrangement Arranged alphabetically by title. Multiple copies of the same song indicate different printings or editions.

Sub-Series 4.3 Subjects circa 1895-2000

Physical Description: 54 folders, 1 box of negatives and slides.

Scope and Content Note

This sub-series consists of subject files found scattered throughout Judd's collection when it entered archival custody. Photographs form the bulk of the materials, together with clippings from newspapers and the popular press. The subjects include biographies and obituaries; film reviews; drag clubs (Club My-O-My and Finocchios); college and military drag; ballet; opera; organizations, including the Bohemian and Elks clubs and the E T V C (Educational Transvestite Channel); and events, such as the naval Crossing the Equator Ceremony (1936, 1947), the Castro Street Fair (1979-1982), Halloween (1982), and San Francisco Imperial Court coronations (1983, 1993); and parades, including New Orleans Mardi Gras, Philadelphia Mummers, and San Francisco Pride (1978, 1981, 1982). Additional materials include unidentified photographs and photographic negatives, and photocopies of sheet music covers. The relevance to cross-dressing of some of the materials, such as publicity stills and newspaper clippings relating to movie serials derived from comics, and sheet music of songs on YMCA themes, is not readily apparent.

Coll2007-020/ Poster001-Poster109, Box 53 : 1 (Oversize)	Series 5. Posters 1910-1999 (bulk 1959-1994) Physical Description: 112 items. Scope and Content Note This series consists of posters collected by Judd, as well as a small number of other materials mounted on poster board. The majority of the posters advertise motion pictures that contain incidences of cross-dressing; of the other posters, one is for an erotic film featuring pre-operative male-to-female transsexuals, while several others advertise gay male and heterosexual films that do not appear to contain any incidences of cross-dressing. The non-motion picture material includes a print of a painting of the "Gay Philosopher" by Henry Major (1889-1948); a print of Burt Reynold's April 1972 Cosmopolitan centerfold; theatrical performances by Sylvester, both alone and with the Cockettes (1977), Danny La Rue in the Christmas pantomime Aladdin (1978), Divine in The Hearbreak of Psoriasis (1975), Holly Woodlawn (1976), and Cathy Rigby in Peter Pan (1990); and the 1985 Sydney Mardi Gras celebration. Arrangement Arranged alphabetically by title of motion picture/theatrical performance or subject.

Box 56 : 1-38	Series 6. Film and Video circa 1913-1994 Physical Description: 1 film : 16mm ; 38 videocassettes (VHS). Scope and Content Note According to a list compiled at approximately the time the collection came to ONE National Gay &amp; Lesbian Archives (box 47 : folder 23), Judd's collection originally consisted of at least 183 VHS tapes of motion pictures containing examples of cross-dressing. The majority of these tapes appear to have been discarded before the collection came into archival custody. This series contains the surviving 38 videos, comprising copies of 47 motion pictures, 2 television productions, 1 television series episode, a compilation of 14 Three Stooges shorts, and Charles Pierce's First Annual Farewell Concert. Only two of the videos are commercial products; the others are personal recordings, many on previously used tapes. The series also includes a 16mm print of the 1914 motion picture The Masquerader; this print is deposited with the Outfest Legacy Project at the UCLA Film &amp; Television Archive.
